SITE REVIEW/MAINTENANCE
An ongoing development phase of most web sites is maintenance. Once it is built and uploaded to the host server a web designer will be asked to develop new content as well as update existing content. You will also be asked to fix bugs, perform hardware and software updates and consult with an employer or client about best practices, ongoing opportunities and more. For your fnal project make sure your site has all the content in place and is working without bugs or broken links. Check the spelling, grammar, and alignment of all content. Make sure you have the correct page titles on each page!

Any content links outside of your site, or different in look and feel needs to have a target="_blank" applied to open in a new window.
